Fun fact -- Solar panels also act as "roof shades" to keep buildings cool. They absorb the sun's rays, directing them away from the roof, whereas a roof without panels would allow heat to penetrate into the building. As people around the world look for ways to "go green" and protect the earth, solar panels provide an excellent option.

On average, solar panels cost $8.77 per square foot of living space, after factoring in the 30% tax credit. However, the cost per square foot varies based on the size of the home. For example, the post-tax credit cost of solar panels for a 2,500-square-foot home is around $20,000 for a rate of $7.96 per square foot.
