

On 11-12 April, we launched our SUPERNOVA project at the NOI Techpark, at Bolzano, Italy. This 42-month, almost EUR5 million Horizon Europe funded project, will focus on operation and maintenance (O&M) and grid-friendly tools and solutions for reliable, bankable, and circular solar PV plants.

Italy is one of the most virtuous countries in Europe and in the world for the production of renewable energy. According to data from Eni's World Energy Review 2021, Italy was ranked sixth in the world for installed photovoltaic capacity in 2020 while, at a national level, solar energy is the most widely used renewable source after hydroelectricity.

Swiss energy company BKW AG (SWX:BKW) has signed a deal with German-Austrian solar developer CCE Holding to offtake the output of a 42-MW solar project in the Lazio region of Italy.

The potential of solar power worldwide, with particular reference to photovoltaic (PV) energy, is huge: according to the EPIA (European Photovoltaic Industry Association) the photovoltaic sector has ...

Rovigo Solar PV Project is a 49MW solar PV power project. It is planned in Veneto, Italy. According to GlobalData, who tracks and profiles over 170,000 power plants worldwide, the project is currently at the permitting stage.

The projects will feature over 32,500 solar modules mounted on three-metre (9.8 ft) high tracker systems to maximise solar power generation while allowing crops to be cultivated beneath the panels. Construction is expected to commence in early 2025, with commissioning scheduled for the end of the year.

The cost of building solar power plants in Italy can currently be less than 1,000 euros per kilowatt, which corresponds to 100 million euros for a large power plant with an installed capacity of 100 MW. Today, solar power plants are able to successfully compete with traditional energy sources due to minimal operating costs and low equipment costs.
